The hour has come to speak of troubled times. It is time we spoke of Skullyville." Thus begins Rose Goode's story of her growing up in Indian Territory in pre-statehood Oklahoma. Skullyville, a once-thriving Choctaw community, was destroyed by land-grabbers, culminating in the arson on New Year's Eve, 1896, of New Hope Academy for Girls	With uninhibited writing as stark as a wintery windblown Montana prairie that shivers through your skin and settles into your bones, the all original and powerful works of The Off the Path anthology are not afraid to be daring, bold, and go to where your head and heart craves to go-even if they didn't know it yet. With storytelling skills by some of Montana's premiere-as well as newly discovered-contemporary American Indian authors, you'll be sure to find life, love, hardship, and true beauty off the beaten path as your mind forges a new trail into a place you've never been.	With Kenneth Dyer-Redner; Dana Lone Hill; Bojan Louis; Sterling HolyWhiteMountain; Kristiana Kahakauwila, K.M. Harris Ellen van Neerven; Bill Wetzel; Cinnamon Spear. The indigenous experience is one of vast complexities all too frequently represented by just a select few storytellers.	Nothing ever happens on the Otter Lake reservation. But when 16-year-old Tiffany discovers her father is renting out her room, she's deeply upset. Sure, their guest is polite and keeps to himself, but he's also a little creepy. Little do Tiffany, her father, or even her astute Granny Ruth suspect the truth.
